

Pterygium Surgery with Conjunctival Graft

A pterygium is a growth on the surface of the cornea that can cause irregular astigmatism and even grow into the visual axis (central vision). They are usually the result of sun-damage. In pterygium surgery, we remove this growth and replace it with a graft of healthy cells.

Pterygium